

INTERNAL MEDICINE SUB-I SITES

Kaiser Permanente Los Angeles Medical Center

The Kaiser Permanente Los Angeles Medical Center is the tertiary care medical center for Kaiser Permanente, the largest health Maintenance Organization in Southern California. The student will function as a sub-intern on the medicine service composed of the attending, resident, and 2 interns. This rotation provides an opportunity to practice medicine in a large, successful health maintenance organization which cares for over 2.1 million patients.

Keck Hospital of USC

Keck Hospital is USC's tertiary care hospital that provides state-of-the-art hospital services for our private practice, student health, and surrounding community. This modern facility provides patients with some of the largest innovations in comprehensive medical and surgical care. Internal Medicine students and residents gain a rich experience in a multidisciplinary, multi-payer environment with special attention to Medicine as it applies to the geriatric, general medicine, and perioperative patients (may include consultative role). Full time faculty from the Department of Medicine provides close supervision to patients and learners to ensure high quality care and education.

Los Angeles General Medical Center

Los Angeles General Medical Center is situated on the USC Health Sciences Campus near Metropolitan Los Angeles. This state-of-the-art medical center enables the staff to provide our students and residents with a remarkably rich and diverse training environment. Our students work under the supervision of residents and full time faculty in the department of Medicine. The scope of clinical pathology seen by USC medical students and residents (both common and rare) is truly unrivaled in the United States. In addition, our institution serves as a tertiary and quaternary referral center for the region, nation and in deed the world.
