JOB ACCOUNTABILITIES

	% Time	Essential	Marginal	N/A
Monitors and advises on reports from across the university's various campuses, including investigations handled by OPE, the Office of General Counsel (OGC) and other relevant stakeholders. Maximizes reporting and collection capabilities of a central complaint tracking system to leverage work done by relevant stakeholders (e.g., Clery Act team) and adhere to all requirements (e.g., Office of Civil Rights).
Reviews existing investigation processes and resources and develops best practices. Analyzes complaint and investigation trends to perform threat assessments, spot necessary remedial actions and determine best ways to implement changes. Drafts, reviews and revises policies with respect to complaint handling and reporting and USC's commitment to increased communication, transparency, accountability and consistency.
Has responsibility for researching and advising the university community on issues related to workplace investigations and reporting obligations. Designs varied metrics and report formats for spotting trends and highlighting high-risk matters, maximizing utility and impact and proactively addressing issues before they become larger problems.
Designs training programs, implementing and auditing university training efforts to ensure compliance with regulatory and policy requirements. Seeks out conferences to promote and increase USC's expertise with respect to workplace investigations. Fosters relationships with investigators and decision-makers at universities across the country.
Conducts and helps oversee investigations conducted internally or on behalf of OPE. Provides support to OGC litigation efforts by locating relevant university records and other related data within OPE purview. Manages relevant OPE staff, assigning and scheduling work, reviewing performance, recommending disciplinary actions and/or terminating employees.
Promotes an environment that fosters inclusive relationships and creates unbiased opportunities for contributions through ideas, words, and actions that uphold principles of the USC Code of Ethics.
